

AI Predictions Disclosure

Explains that AI outputs are informational SaaS features and not personal advice, guarantees, or managed execution.

Host platform legal layer | FXZone Express | fxzone-express.com

1. Product Nature

AI predictions, signal scores, confidence ranges, and related model output are software-generated informational tools only. They are provided as a SaaS-style feature and do not constitute a personal recommendation or guarantee of future performance.

2. No Advice and No Guarantee

Model output may be incomplete, stale, inaccurate, or unsuitable for a specific user, instrument, jurisdiction, or risk profile. Users remain solely responsible for any decision taken after viewing AI output.

3. Data and Model Limitations

Predictions may rely on historical data, third-party feeds, technical indicators, or probabilistic assumptions that can break under abnormal conditions. Market regimes can change faster than the model adapts.

4. User Controls

Users should validate symbol selection, execution parameters, risk limits, and legal eligibility independently before trading. AI output should be treated as a supplemental research aid, not a trading mandate.
